Question

- If we had to account for whitespace in this assignment, we would have to modify the lexer. Where we ignore whitespace currently with `[ \t\n\r]`, we would need to watch for those characters, and specifically after certain declarations confirm that the following lines contain a single tab, etc. This would greatly complicate many of the rules governing control flow statements in our lexer.